

Michael A. Scofield

March 3 at 5:59pm · 🌐

Saw The Curate Shakespeare As You Like It last night at the Curtain Theater. This is without a doubt the funniest play that The Baron's Men has ever done. Kate Clark, the director of this play, has drawn out the best of every cast member.

Andy Bond as the Curate, is perfect, even with the crazy cast he has! Each and every other cast member is new to the troupe, but each one brought a new and wonderful liveliness to the stage. Rachael Shaw as Rosalind was absolutely wonderful in her portrayal of a shy actor. Shannon Dodson, as Audrey, pulls off some of the most hilarious lines that I have ever heard, and almost pulls off being a guy.

If you haven't seen this wonderful play about a play, with issues, you need to go. It is well worth the trip, and they have blankets if it gets too cold. It runs from March 1-17 on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at The Curtain Theater in Austin, presented by The Baron's Men.